EPA to resume lead cleanup

EPA, businesses, city agree on pilot project

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will be allowed to remove lead-contaminated soil from 13 to 17 residential yards in Granite City as part of an agreement reached last week.

Attorneys representing EPA, the city and the businesses potentially responsible for the contamination worked out the agreement, which was approved by U.S. District Judge James Foreman Wednesday after day-long negotiations Tuesday.

The three-block area will be used as a pilot to study the extent of recontamination, if any, during and after the soil is removed.

The EPA also agreed to allow more public comment on its $35 million plan to remove the top six inches of tainted soil from a larger, 55-block area of Granite City, Madison and Venice where residential lead concentration in soil exceeds 500 parts per million.

Last month, Foreman issued an order halting the EPA's Superfund cleanup after Granite City officials objected to it.

The city claims the EPA's plan is too disruptive and does not address the problems of lead in water pipes, house paint and dust, and a 290,000-ton lead scrap pile in the city. The city argued that, because the EPA's plan does not address those issues, it will be ineffective in reducing blood-lead levels in children. In support of that position, city officials point to a recent 18-month, $500,000 Illinois Department of Public Health study conducted within a three-mile radius of the cleanup area. The study concludes that lead paint and dust in households contribute more to elevated blood-lead levels in children than lead-contaminated soil does.

"This is the only way we could have negotiated a comprehensive plan — one that addresses all sources of contamination," said Alderman Craig Tarpoff, chairman of the Citizen Advisory Committee for the cleanup.

Tarpoff participated in the negotiations last week.

"We hope this is a sign that all parties are willing to work to come up with a plan that will result in a significant reduction in all major sources of lead exposure that present a health risk," Tarpoff said.

These purple lisianthus are one of many flowers that will be available at Wilson Park's annual flower giveaway on Saturday, Oct. 1.

Flower giveaway Saturday

To everything, there is a season, and that includes flowers. Wilson Park's annual flower giveaway is the result of having to remove one kind of flower to make room for another, a sort of "out with the old, in with the new" solution.

The flowers to be distributed Saturday are annuals planted in the park's gardens last spring. They must be removed to prepare for the planting of tulips and other spring flowering bulbs. Even though the plants are annuals, some varieties may be used as house plants and some will seed. If seeds are stored properly, they may be used for planting next season.

From 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, park workers will dig up the annual flowers to be given out. They will also be able to answer questions.

Varieties available are geraniums, annual hibiscus, copperleaf, begonias, verbena, coleus, vinca (periwinkle), gompharena, ageratum, zinnia (classic), lisianthus, marigold, Joseph's Coat, cuphea (Mexican heather), salvia (red and blue), gazania, croten and Moses in the Cradle. The last two make excellent house plants.

Because of unusual weather last spring and very dry periods this summer, cuttings from roses will not be given out, according to Bill Monical, groundskeeper for the Granite City Park District. Monical pointed out that no perennials will be given out, but will be distributed in the spring.

People are reminded to bring their own containers. Park district personnel will be the only ones allowed to dig the flowers up. No plants will be given away before that time.

Allegations fail to stop conviction

Defense allegations of corruption in the Venice Police Department apparently failed to convince a federal jury last week in the drug and weapon trial of the police chief's nephew.

A jury of four men and eight women deliberated just more than an hour Thursday before finding Josiah "Little Joe" Compton III of Venice guilty of federal charges of possession of crack cocaine, possession of cocaine with the intent to deliver it and use of a firearm in the commission of a drug trafficking crime.

On Tuesday morning, Compton, 25, nephew of Venice Police Chief James Bennett, had pleaded guilty to a fourth charge of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Sentencing is scheduled for Nov. 28 before U.S. District Judge William Stiehl.

Phillip Kavanaugh, Compton's attorney, characterized the trial as "a typical drug and weapons trial" until it was revealed Tuesday that the Venice Police Department had lost 45.8 grams of a white powder to be used as evidence.

Dana Adams, a crime lab technician for the Illinois State Police, testified that the bag contained "a measurable amount" of cocaine, but that the powder was diluted considerably by another substance.

Compton claimed that police set him up. Kavanaugh tried to convince the jury that the bag in fact contained bleach powder for Compton's sister's hair before police dropped a small quantity of cocaine into it.

"This case was totally mishandled by the Venice Police Department. Proper procedures were not followed. The quality of this police work is atrocious," Kavanaugh told the jury.

"Who polices the police? Who takes them to task? Who makes them accountable?

"They (police officers) lied to the jury because they wanted to set up Josiah Compton," Kavanaugh argued.

"They lost the evidence because we (the defense) would have had it tested. Isn't that convenient?" he asked the jury in his closing arguments.

Kavanaugh also pointed to the fact that Compton's probation officer, Gene Etheridge, testified

Driveway scam settled

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A transient worker accused of defrauding 15 Madison County residents of thousands of dollars by performing substandard blacktopping work has agreed to pay nearly $11,000 to resolve outstanding complaints against him.

Orsey

Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey said the money will be used for several purposes: restitution to the victims, setting up an account to pay other victims who may not have come forward, contributing to a consumer information program set up by the Illinois Attorney General, and paying for a newspaper ad informing the public of the settlement.

Under the terms of the agreement Richard D. Pearce, the worker, will also refrain from ever again doing any home repair work in the state.

Pearce also pleaded guilty to criminal misdemeanor charges stemming from the driveway scam. He will pay a $450 fine and serve two years of probation as a result of the plea.

The settlement comes less than a week after the attorney general's office filed suit against Pearce alleging violations of the Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Practices Act.

Pearce was accused of approaching senior citizens and offering to apply blacktop sealer to their driveways. The customers paid between $100 and $350 each for work, which was guaranteed for three years.

But in each case, the sealer washed away with the first heavy rainfall, Orsey said.

"We have crafted an innovative agreement which will protect those consumers who have complained to us and also protects possible victims who may not have yet come forward," Attorney General Roland Burris said.

News— Mass murder trial continues.

Trial begins in Eagle Park murders

Slaying victim may have known fate

One of the four people murdered execution-style in an Eagle Park trailer court apparently knew his fate while struggling to loosen duct tape from his hands, a prosecutor said.

Prosecutors said David Thompson Jr., 21, was the last victim shot in the back of the head Nov. 17 in Eagle Park Acres.

"The duct tape was frantically loosened around his hands," said Keith Jensen, a special assistant of the Illinois Attorney General's Office who is prosecuting Remon Williams, 22, of Washington Park, and Michael Coleman, 22, of Venice.

Each man is charged with five counts of first-degree murder, including the killing of Thompson's neighbor after the execution-style slayings.

Thursday was the first day of the trial, which is expected to last at least a week.

"He saw what was going on as his friends were being shot in the back of the head and he tried to get free," Jensen said in his opening statement. He is being assisted by Duane Bailey, an assistant Madison County State's Attorney and special prosecutor for the Attorney General's Office.

Coleman's attorney, Thomas Hildebrand of Alton, and Williams' attorney, Stephanie Robbins of Edwardsville, reserved their opening statements.

Coleman and Williams, along with Sherrell Towns of East St. Louis, are accused of shooting Thompson and the three others while attempting to steal drug money from one of the victims. The fifth victim was apparently shot because the gunmen felt he may have been a witness.

Towns, who is awaiting trial, admitted in a statement to police that he, Coleman and Williams killed the men in an attempt to steal the money.

Jensen said the three suspects tied the four victims up before going next door and shooting the fifth victim, Jeffrey Mosby, who apparently was cooking dinner for his chil

Mini crime-spree ends with the arrest of three youths

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

A mini crime-spree that began in Maryville and ended in Leavenworth, Kan. — and included at least two burglaries and two stolen cars along the way — apparently started when four youths walked away from a local drug rehabilitation center, police said.

Three of the youths were in custody on Friday, and police were looking for the fourth in the East St. Louis area, Maryville Police Chief Don Sonnenberg said.

Darrell E. Hamilton, 18, of Granite City, is the only adult in the group. He was charged Thursday with two counts of burglary and one count of offenses related to a motor vehicle, and was in custody at the Madison County Jail on Friday in lieu of $40,000 bond.

Two 16-year-olds, one from Marion, Ill., and the other from Flora, Ill., were turned over to juvenile authorities on Friday and also were charged with two counts of burglary and one of offenses relating to a motor vehicle, Sonnenberg said.

In addition, the Illinois Department of Corrections issued an escape warrant against the juvenile from Marion, who had been directed to the rehabilitation center by DOC, Sonnenberg said.

Sonnenberg said the trouble started about midnight Sunday night, when Maryville Police got a report of criminal damage and four walkaways from the Lighthouse drug and alcohol rehabilitation center, 1001 Vadalabene.

According to a statement from one of the juveniles, Sonnenberg said, the four met in a field near Anderson Hospital and decided to try to steal a car at Enterprise Leasing nearby.

The four allegedly broke into the leasing office, and tried unsuccessfully to hot wire a 1993 Plymouth Sundance on the company's lot.

From there, they reportedly continued on to King 66 in Maryville. They allegedly broke into the office, ransacked it, stole cigarettes and found the keys to a 14-foot U-Haul truck, which they used to drop off one of the juveniles in East St. Louis.

The three remaining youths then allegedly took the U-Haul south to Flora, where one of the juveniles went to a relative's house to get some belongings. They allegedly abandoned the U-Haul in a wooded area, stole a Cadillac and headed west.

Early Wednesday morning, the three were picked up by police in Leavenworth, Kan., Sonnenberg said.

Two Maryville Police officers, Sgt. Bob Davis and Officer J.R. Kinnard, traveled to Leavenworth Wednesday evening to question to three suspects and return them to Madison County.

Eric Smith, assistant director of Lighthouse, said his agency is an open-door facility that provides voluntary treatment to adolescent substance abusers.

The agency has been located in Maryville for the last four years, he said. It can handle up to 40 patients, but averages 25 to 30, Smith said.

"When a kid decides that he doesn't want to be here, we ask them to let us notify their parents so they can leave in the proper way," Smith said. "But some choose to do otherwise."

Smith said it was "rare" that those receiving treatment at Lighthouse get into trouble. Sonnenberg agreed.

"We have a very good relationship with Lighthouse," Sonnenberg said. "We haven't had any major problems with them. They do a good job."

Open house for Homecoming

Granite City School officials are hoping that area residents will take advantage of Homecoming week to tour the high school building.

"Homecoming week is always the most exciting, most fun-filled and busiest week of the entire school year," GCHS Principal David Painter said.

"And with the added open house this year, we're looking for even more community participation."

GCHS students will conduct tours of the high school during an Open House from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 28 and 29; and from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 30.

Voters are being asked Nov. 8 to approve a bond issue that would allow for a $12 million renovation of the 70-year-old high school building.

Other scheduled Homecoming activities include: Monday — parade; Tuesday — home volleyball game against Collinsville; Wednesday — Homecoming play, "Arsenic and Old Lace," followed by coronation of the queen and king; Thursday — Homecoming play and a home soccer game against Belleville East; Friday — home football game against Edwardsville; and Saturday — dance.

For more information, call the high school at 451-5808.

'Banned Book Week' slated

Chances are good that the main and branch libraries of the Granite City Public Library District have dozens of books on their shelves that have been challenged or banned over the years.

From Sept. 26 through Oct. 1, the library district will join other libraries across the nation in celebrating "Banned Books Week" with the message that freedom of expression is a basic human right, guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

Which books are most likely to be banned? Stop by the main library, 2001 Delmar Ave., to see the special display, and you may be surprised to find John Mildton's Paradise Lost, Jack London's The Call of the Wild and even the Merriam-Webster Collegiate Dictionary (Banned in 1982 from schools in Carlsbad, N.M., because it "defines obscene words".).

This year alone, books such as Maya Angelou's I know Why the Caged Bird Sings, Grimm's Hansel and Gretel and nearly every novel by Stephen King have been challenged or removed from library shelves.

Winston Churchill once said: "Some people's idea of it (free speech) is that they are free to say what they like, but if anyone says anything back, that's an outrage."

Toddler's death ruled accidental

The death of a 21-month-old girl run over by a postal truck was ruled an accident by a coroner's jury Thursday in Edwardsville.

Amber L. Voloski, who lived with her mother, Angela Hucks, in the 1200 block of Meridian Avenue in Granite City, died Aug. 26 at St. Elizabeth Medical Center shortly after the accident.

According to Granite City Police reports, Hucks, 21, had been visiting a friend in the Kirkpatrick Homes. She reportedly left her daughter unattended when she answered a telephone call.

The toddler apparently wandered outside into an alley, where she was struck by a United States Post Office truck driven by Evelyn J. Gillespie of Roxana.

According to the police report, Gillespie said she had not seen the girl enter the alley because she was trying to avoid a group of people and a small unleashed dog on the opposite side of the roadway. She became aware of the girl, Gillespie reported, only after the group of people shouted to alert her of the accident.

The child's father, Mathew Voloski, 22, who resides with the mother, was not at the scene of the accident.

No charges have been filed against Gillespie in the accident.

Girl's death is ruled accidental

The death of one-year-old Crystal Holland of Madison was ruled accidental at a coroner's inquest Wednesday at the Madison County Courthouse.

The jury concluded that Holland died of massive head injuries after accidentally being run over by an automobile while she played in the driveway at her home on Skeen Street during the afternoon of Aug. 23.

Detective Leonard D. Suhre of the Madison County Sheriff's Department testified that a 1976 Chevrolet pick-up truck driven by Kathleen Hartman, Crystal's aunt of the same residence on Skeen Street, apparently ran over Holland.

Suhre's said that Hartman reported upon returning from taking her daughter to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, she learned that her son also required immediate medical attention.

Suhre reported that Hartman said she was in a rush to get her son to the hospital, so she belted him into the truck, pulled the truck out of the driveway and left, not seeing Holland in the driveway.

According to Suhre, Hartman said that as she left the driveway, she did hear people yelling for her to return, but she kept going because she did not think the yells were important.

Suhre said tire impressions on the deceased match the type of tires on the truck Hartman was driving. Investigation also found an area under the passenger side of the truck which had been cleared of oil and dirt that could have been the area which hit Holland, according to Suhre.

Holland's mother, Teresa Holland, reported to Suhre that the last time she saw her daughter that day, the baby was in the house playing on the bed. Hartman said she also last saw the baby in the house.

The Madison County State's Attorney's office no charges would be filed against Hartman.

Suhre said there was no information on any other vehicle in the area at the time of the incident.

Collinsville 60th reunion Oct. 8

The Collinsville Township High School Class of 1934 will have its 60th class reunion at 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Illinois 157 in Collinsville. Dinner will be at 6 p.m.

The cost is $12 per person and reservations must be in by Sept. 28. Send reservations to Amelia Romeo Bendicks, 538 Vandalia St., Apt. 3, Collinsville.

Stabbing ruled homicide

A Madison County coroner's jury has ruled the death of Lavanda Nauden, 22, of East St. Louis a homicide.

Nauden was found dead from stab wounds to the throat and chest areas around 6:30 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 18.

A passing motorist discovered the body near Horseshoe Lake off of Bend Road three miles east of Highway 203, just outside the Madison city limits.

Detective Leonard D. Suhre of the Madison County Sheriff's Department testified at a coroner's inquest Wednesday in Edwardsville that several interviews are being conducted, but so far, there have been no arrests.

Suhre said investigation showed a sex crime also had been committed against Nauden.

Suhre reported that Nauden apparently went out to celebrate her birthday the night before her body was discovered. She did return to her residence in East St. Louis, but left again around 4 a.m.

Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke reported that cocaine was discovered in Nauden's blood.

Madison school officials look for revenue boost

By Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

Superintendent Ken Miller is looking for ways to increase revenue and build up savings for Madison School District 12. Several of his ideas were discussed at Thursday's board of education meeting.

The board approved Miller's suggestion that the district become involved in the Illinois School District Liquid Assets fund. Miller explained that the fund allows the school to make investments across the country.

But his other idea, a tort immunity fund, was not so easily accepted. Miller said tort money is taxable money for risk management.

"It was originally designed to provide insurance. It has expanded over the years to allow for things other than insurance like playground monitoring, mandatory vaccinations, anything that protects against lawsuits," said Miller.

Board President John Hamm III commented, "The community came behind the board when they were needed. I'm open to see the plan, but hard-pressed to increase people's taxes."

The board did agree that Miller should look further into the tort immunity fund and report back.

In other money-saving attempts, the district will no longer fund sports physicals. In the past, the district has offered sports physicals given by nurse practitioners at the schools for $4.

"We've always paid for the physicals. I think maybe we should consider having the family pay, if the family is under no hardship. Some of the kids are just having the physical to get out of class," Miller said.

The board voted 6-1 in favor of the proposal. Board member Dannie Sipes, who was the only one who voted no, stated: "I think we should continue to pay."

Ken Miller
Madison superintendent

In other business, the board directed Miller to fill three extra- curricular activity vacancies. A high school cheerleading sponsor, a seventh grade boys basketball coach and a high school assistant girl's basketball coach are needed. The positions have already been budgeted.

The board hired two teachers, including Mary Kaesar as a part-timekindergarten teacher and part-time Chapter 1 teacher. Carol Johnson was hired as Chapter 1 school-home coordinator.

Two mothers addressed the board, complaining about a biology teacher their children have. The children allege that the teacher is not teaching them relevant material from the textbook. Miller suggested the two make appointments with him to discuss their concerns.

Miller informed the board that the new computer system is in at the high school, and will soon be in place at the administrative office.

"I'm real excited. I think this will get finances in a shape they haven't been in in a long time, which is not the fault of anyone. It was the system," Miller said.

He said he hopes the system will be working by Oct. 14. Among other things, the system will handle attendance, scheduling and grading.

Miller also noted that he and board member Donald Turner expect results concerning the discipline code soon.

Hamm announced that closed session negotiations continue between the board and the teachers for contract bargaining.

The board approved two requests, for the Madison Community Action Group to use the Harris School gym for "Breakfast with Santa," and to allow Al Collins use of the high school gym after school for pre-season conditioning.

Shop may move to Hartford

A Wood River motorcycle and watercraft shop is revving up for an expansion and possible move to Hartford.

The County Board voted 24-1 Wednesday to give a $100,000 low-interest Community Development loan to Midwest Motor Sports.

The expansion is expected to add 15 jobs to the business, which sells and repairs motorcycles and personal watercraft, but Wood River officials said they'd be sorry to see the business leave the city.

Midwest Motor Sports owner John Roth was tight-lipped about the possible move, but county officials confirmed the business is expected to use some of the $100,000 loan to move into new quarters in Hartford.

Midwest Motor Sports now is at 1490 E. Edwardsville Road in Wood River.

"They outgrew where they are now," Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer said.

Wood River City Manager Joey Tolbert said he obviously would be disappointed to see any business leave town.

"We've tried to work with Mr. Roth to find alternative sites in the city," he said, "and will continue to help him find a suitable location to maintain the business in Wood River."

County Board member Tony Bosich of Wood River said he voted for the loan, even though it may help Roth make the move.

"If he wants to leave, let him. I see no reason why he should not move," he said. "I'm all for a man doing what he can to improve himself in business."

Highland board member Harold Byers cast the sole no vote but did not speak against the proposal.

The prospect of a new business with 15 new jobs sounds great to Hartford Mayor Ron Goode: "Midwest Motor Sports would be a shot in the arm if the business decided to come to Hartford."

Setting up and enjoying an Aquarium
from the pet experts at
FRANK'S®
NURSERY & CRAFTS
Where Beautiful Things Begin

Trying to think of something that would look great in that bare corner of your family room? How about something that would be beautiful, fascinating and entertaining? How about a tropical fish aquarium?

As is the case with just about everything else, there's more to it than meets the eye. Years ago it was quite a chore, but not any more. The accessories available today greatly ease the work that aquarium owners once faced. The experts at Frank's have some tips for selecting and setting up an aquarium your whole family will love.

When choosing a spot for the aquarium, keep in mind that a large quantity of water is mighty heavy. When full, a 55-gallon aquarium weighs in at well over 400 pounds. Your surface should be sturdy and capable of supporting that much weight. A flimsy table simply will not do the job. Invest in a quality aquarium stand. Not only will it support the weight of the aquarium, it will also look great!

You must also realize that full aquariums aren't the easiest things in the world to move, and it's definitely not recommended. If the tank must be moved, most of the water should be drained first, so make sure your site selection is a good one. The tank should not be placed on top of or close to a heat source, in warm or cold drafts, or in direct sunlight.

Selecting fish is extremely important. Some fish get along fine with one another, but introduce the wrong two in the same tank, and a battle royal to end all will ensue. A pet store that specializes in tropical fish is your best source when selecting fish.

Many of us aren't fond of crowds and will go to any extreme to avoid them. Fish aren't too crazy about crowded conditions either, but once they're let loose in your tank, they can't do much about it. A good rule of thumb is this: one inch of tropical fish for each gallon of water in the tank. Let's translate that a bit. Ten 1" fish could live comfortably in a ten-gallon tank. A 55-gallon tank can accommodate approximately 55 inches of fish...55 one-inch fish, 27 two-inch fish, you get the idea.

Goldfish, on the other hand, like more wide-open spaces. Small ones require about 20 square inches of area per fish, medium ones need twice that.

Generally, fish need to be fed three to five times a day and never more than they can eat in five minutes. You shouldn't try to ease the job by putting in three to five times the normal amount. Excess food sinks to the bottom of the tank, where it will decay and pollute the water.

When illness strikes fish, they can pass it around to the others. Correct feeding, good water conditions, frequent cleanings and proper water temperature can keep sickness to a minimum, but an occasional malady may sprout up despite your best efforts. Learn to spot signs of distress early. Watch for fish that keep their fins clamped, shake their bodies, scratch against objects in the tank, hide in corners, or gasp at the top of the tank. Frank's carries specific treatments for ick and fungus, the two most common ailments of fish. If you're not sure what's causing the problem, a more broad spectrum disease control such as Wardley's Promethyasul can be used.

Problems with aquariums are few and far between in most cases, as long as simple procedures are followed. A properly maintained aquarium can be one of the most enjoyable accents in your home.

Health department grant accepted

Madison County officials can begin laying the foundation for a health department now that a $174,500 state grant has been approved.

The Health Board, in its first meeting since the health department was created last month, voted unanimously Wednesday to accept a $174,500 grant from the Illinois Department of Public Health.

The County Board inaugurated itself Wednesday as the Health Board.

The grant is expected to be used to draft a comprehensive health department plan and to hire an executive director.

The plan, which needs state approval before the health department begins offering services, is expected to take more than a year to prepare, officials said. County officials are aiming to begin full-scale health department operations in 1996.

The board voted last month to create a health department that will have 22 employees and an annual budget of $890,000.

The department will provide infectious disease control, restaurant inspections, well water monitoring and private sewer inspections — the four basic services required of county health departments by state public health officials.

In other business Wednesday, the board:

- Voted unanimously to increase the rabies vaccination fee for dogs from $12 to $13. Animal Control officials said the increase is necessary to help meet rising costs at the pound.
- Voted unanimously to add 10 beds to the ongoing juvenile detention home expansion project. The move will bring the total number of beds from 21 to 42 when the project is completed.

In addition, a detached building will be located near the juvenile home to house the Educational Therapy Center, an Alton-based nonprofit agency that provides counseling and schooling for troubled youths.

The center will pay $45,000 a month in rent for 10 years. The agency formerly operated out of a rented section of the juvenile home but had to move into temporary quarters when renovation work began.

- Approved a four-year extension of the Sheriff's Department pact with Godfrey.

The contract, approved Tuesday night by the Village Board, includes an option for extending the deal two more years.

John Thomas Granite City

Extension publication addresses problem of household ants

"What To Do About Household Ants" is a new publication now available from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

Knowing what species of ant is present helps to determine the nesting site, the food preference and the best method of control. In most cases the effective, permanent solution is to find and treat the nest. Several different kinds of ants are examined to assist the reader in identifying an ant's species.

This six-page pamphlet offers information about control of household ants inside and outside the home and also offers a few non-chemical solutions to this problem.

"What To Do About Household Ants" is available from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. The Madison-St. Clair offices are located at 900 Hillsboro in Edwardsville, and #1 S. Third St. in Belleville. When requesting this publication, identify it as NCR531.

Tanzyus attacks Bowles on issues

Welfare reform, crime, gun control and juvenile delinquency are state issues, said David Tanzyus, Republican candidate in the 56th Senate District.

Tanzyus called a news conference Wednesday to respond to recent remarks by Sen. Evelyn Bowles that his campaign is about issues being addressed at the federal level. Bowles' remarks came after an earlier Tanzyus news conference in which he challenged the state senator to a debate.

"There is a considerable amount of legislation in each of these areas," the challenger said Wednesday.

"In each, we have state agencies that receive money appropriated by the Illinois House and Senate. Money saved by reform is definitely state tax money. I'd like to know where she stands."

He said there were a number of welfare reform bills in the last session, including one Senate bill that limited welfare benefits to two years for those who could work. "I would have amended that to include a transitional program," he said, noting recipients need help to move from welfare to self support.

Tanzyus said he would oppose the Democratic amendment to a U.S. House bill to increase the tax on ammunition by as much as 200 percent.

"This is important to our area," he said. "We have a lot of people who work for Olin."

He also said, "I'd like to know how (Bowles) is going to vote on ... amending the Human Rights Act to add sexual orientation to the groups that cannot be discriminated against."

He said he doesn't believe homosexuals face discrimination in the workplace.

"And people in the 56th District have a right to know where she stands on taxes," Tanzyus said. "She said she supports Dawn Clark Netsch (the Democratic candidate for governor) and Netsch supports a tax increase.

"I would like to debate her on these issues, so the voters can make an informed choice in November."

Bowles could not be reached for comment.

Girl Scouts to preview cookie sale

Hungry? Hang on a little longer for some sweet treats.

The Girl Scout Cookie Caravan — a sneak preview of the annual cookie sale — is on its way.

The River Bluffs Girl Scout Council will set up caravan booths on dozens of parking lots Oct. 1 and 2.

Cookie fanciers will find Thin Mints, Shortbread and Peanut Butter Sandwiches, Caramel deLites, Peanut Butter Patties, Lemon Pastry Cremes and Strawberry 'n Creme cookies.

For this year only, a fat-free Cinnamon Oatmeal Bar joins the lineup. Cookies cost $2.50 per box.

The cookie sale will be Oct. 7 through 23; deliveries are planned Nov. 7 through 20.

Scouts will be going door-to-door or people can order cookies by calling 692-0692.

Sale proceeds help girls participate in Scouting and provide supplies for leaders, volunteers and camps.

The River Bluffs Council serves more than 10,000 girls in Madison, Calhoun, Jersey, St. Clair, Monroe and parts of Macoupin, Clinton and Randolph counties.

Racial Harmony group opens office

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

After nearly four years, Racial Harmony is opening its first office in 1,500 feet of donated space at the Swansea Schnuck's Plaza.

An open house will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. today (Sunday) at the office, 501 Fullerton Road.

The new Center for Racial Harmony will provide a resource center with information about various cultures and also be used for meetings, teaching, workshops, mediation and conflict resolution sessions, said Constance Rockingham, president of Racial Harmony.

"Before, we operated out of offices and homes of volunteers. But our long-range plan is to become an institution where people can seek information and talk with the staff and volunteers," she said.

Racial Harmony was organized in 1991 to unite area residents after newspaper reports alleged Belleville police were targeting blacks traveling through the city for traffic tickets.

But Rockingham said the organization is not only for Belleville residents, but everyone throughout the area. Boundary lines do not keep negative views from crossing into another city, she said.

"Some people did see Belleville as the problem, but there's no point in attempting to fool ourselves into thinking that a line can change that," she said.

The office also will help emphasize that Racial Harmony is not a fly-by-night organization, but one with permanence, Rockingham said.

She credited Terry Schnuck with having the vision to provide the free space to the organization.

"He truly believes in the community and wants to show that by his donation," she said. "It's significant that this was donated because it's not cheap."

Elected officials were the first to be recruited to work with Racial Harmony.

Support groups have been in existence for many years. They can become a vital and positive influence in the lives of both patients and those who care about them. By providing information about their disease and how to live with it, support group members can create a better working partnership between patient and physician.

Memorial believes that support groups provide an opportunity for patients, along with their families and friends to discuss uncertainties and learn to place them in perspective. Better than any other technique, talking in a support group with people who share common problems, helps them understand that they are not alone.

The following is information about Memorial-sponsored support groups: For more information about these groups, call the Community Relations Department at 257-5649.

HOPE

Organizations offer help with serious mental illness

Two local organizations offer Madison County families information and help in coping with serious mental illness.

Alliance for the Mentally Ill (AMI) is a national self-help organization of families of mentally ill persons, mentally ill persons themselves, and friends. Composed of several hundred local and state groups, its goals are mutual support, education and advocacy for persons with severe mental illness, especially schizophrenia and manic and other disabling depressions.

AMI will be providing information to the public on Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Walmart in Granite City. For more information call Bev at 877-5006.

Poet's work on MetroLink

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

East St. Louis Poet Laureate Eugene Redmond has had his work read and heard throughout the country.

Most encounters with Redmond's work take place at poetry readings or other artistic events. But recently, Redmond's work began appearing in a more unusual place — on MetroLink trains and Bi-State buses.

The poetry on local public transportation is part of the Arts in Transit program of the Bi-State Development Agency and is designed to get poetry, "Away from the academy and out of the book in order to live and speak in a real, everyday world," said William Glass, director of the International Writers Center at Washington University.

The poetic mass transit project is receiving advice from members of the International Writers Center and the Eugene B. Redmond Writers Club in East St. Louis.

Redmond recently returned from the National Black Arts Festival in Atlanta. Redmond and several members of the East St. Louis writers club read their poetry at the festival.

Emily Blumenfeld, spokeswoman of the Arts in Transit program, explained that Redmond's Miles Davis Elegy poem is one of three poems that began appearing Sept. 9 on buses and trains to kickoff the new Arts in Transit project.

The other poems on display are from Mona Van Duyn, the first woman U.S. poet laureate, 1992-93 and a resident of St. Louis, and a poem by Gerald Manley Hopkins, a 19th century English poet.

Poems appear in the advertising place on trains and buses and will change every three months to feature works by past and present St. Louis area poets.

Poems related to transit, motion, speed or the seasons are expected to appear. A poetry competition open to any area resident, regardless of age will also help determine poets who will have their works applied to the buses and trains.

In the past year, East St. Louis has been involved in several Arts in Transit programs concerning MetroLink.

Last school year, students at John F. Kennedy Elementary School created visual poetry, which hung on the MetroLink trains.

Visual poetry involves drawing scenes of MetroLink by using appropriate words in the drawings. For example, the word clang, clang, clang could be stretched along the bottom of the page to depict railroad tracks.

This summer, the wood sculpture, Without Socks, was installed at the Metro Link station at Fifth Street and Missouri Avenue.

St. Louis artist Leon Bowie created the sculpture depicting women competing in track as a way to salute the athletic achievements of East St. Louis residents.

The MetroLink station at Fifth Street and Missouri Avenue is by far the busiest station along the MetroLink system.

Quinn jabs Ryan on bodyguards

SPRINGFIELD — Democratic candidate for secretary of state Pat Quinn is continuing to target Republican incumbent George Ryan's use of state trooper bodyguards.

Quinn attacked Ryan Thursday for giving an 11-month $25,000 no-bid consulting contract in July to Robert Lewandowski, who retired from the Illinois State Police in 1992 after serving as one of Ryan's bodyguards for several years.

The latest charge followed the airing last week of the first Quinn television campaign ad that also focused on Ryan's use of the trooper bodyguards, but with humorous twists.

Quinn, who as state treasurer has declined bodyguards, said Ryan should return to taxpayers the $1.4 million expense of his seven bodyguards during his term as secretary of state.

Ryan contends he needs the security because his office suspends thousands of drivers licenses per year and threats are made against him by irate motorists. His campaign began airing television ads this week touting the increase in drunken drivers taken off the road.

Lewandowski's contract calls for him to "provide expert and professional advice" to the secretary of state police for "implementation of upgraded data processing case file reports (and) review (of) security procedures and policies for issuance of drivers licenses, vehicle registrations and related title documents."

Quinn countered that "with all of the competent computer experts we have in Illinois, George Ryan gives this plum contract to a retired bodyguard with no apparent computer training."

"This is another example of Ryan enriching a member of his palace guard. Here's a fellow who was paid as much as $67,000 yearly in tax money to be Ryan's traveling companion, collects a comfortable public pension and then reappears at the Secretary of State's Office to give George Ryan $25,000 worth of advice on data processing," Quinn said.

Ryan spokesman John Torre said Lewandowski was ideally qualified for the contract because of his 25 years of experience in law enforcement and he could propose additional safeguards to make sure underage people are not being issued drivers licenses or identification cards.

Girls may join wrestling team

By Kelly Kribben
Staff writer

District 201 administrators are wrestling with the idea of letting two girls join the Belleville West varsity wrestling team.

As administrators work to pin down a final decision, the two girls, Nikki Jaquillard and Michelle Kane, are busy gathering signatures of support on a petition this week.

The girls went ahead and signed up for the team Tuesday. As of Thursday, they had gathered 200 signatures, 20 from West wrestlers.

"All we want is a chance to go out for the team," Jaquillard said. "We don't want to offend anybody."

Jaquillard wants to tryout for the team's 112-pound spot. She said she doesn't expect to "go out and smash everyone," but does feel she can give the boys a good challenge.

Jaquillard, a senior and Kane, a junior, are both members of the Belleville Judo Club, which is considered a club sport. Each have won competitions on the state and national levels. They compete with some of the boys on the wrestling team during practices at the club.

On Monday, the girls first approached Athletics Director John Wehmeier with their request. The two then made their pitch to Superintendent Leo Hefner that evening.

"He (Wehmeier) laughed at us and said there's no way he's going to let a girl on the wrestling team," Jaquillard said.

On Wednesday, Wehmeier, the former wrestling coach, said his reaction was "spur of the moment" and that he didn't really think they were serious.

"I may have indicated to them that I was not interested in them trying out for the team," he said.

Current wresting coach, Steve Garland was unavailable for comment by press time Friday.

Gender roles at Belleville West have already been shaken up this year after two boys joined the pompon and flag squads. There have been no reports of girls trying out for boy's sports at Belleville East.

Previously, a girl made the boys soccer team but administrators indicated that soccer is not a contact sport like wrestling.

"Guys can get hurt just as easily as girls," Kane said. "Some of them are just upset and don't want girls on the team."

"We're still in the process of talking with the proper state agencies to see what is right and best to do," said Assistant Superintendent Doug Dahm Friday. "We don't have to rush because (practice) doesn't start until Nov. 7."

A decision will be made on what the law requires and what the administration thinks is best for the district and everyone involved, including the girls, he said.

Officials at the Illinois High School Association said state regulations do not prohibit girls from joining wrestling teams.

In the past few years, at least two girls have already joined junior varsity wrestling teams in Illinois, said Jim Flynn, assistant executive director of IHSA.

But schools in the state may designate certain sports as gender specific as long as the school has a sex-equity policy that provides the same number of athletic programs for boys and girls, he added.

Shon Yoshida, a freshmen trying out for this year's team, said Thursday he supports the girls efforts.

"But this will be their first year wrestling and they don't know who's going to be out there," he said.

Kuehn replacement is sought

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Clyde Kuehn's appointment to a circuit judgeship in the 20th Judicial Circuit has left an opening in his former post as public defender in St. Clair County.

The circuit judges will vote on Kuehn's replacement, but Chief Judge Stephen M. Kernan was unavailable to comment on when that vote might be taken.

Kernan also is taking applications through Oct. 14 for the seat to be vacated by Associate Judge Jan V. Fiss, who is running unopposed in November for a circuit judgeship.

By late Friday, only one application had been received for the associate judgeship — that of Chief Public Defender Scott Mansfield.

He has served as the chief public defender since March 1991. He previously served as chief assistant state's attorney and interim state's attorney for 18 months under former state's attorney John Baricevic. However, Mansfield left that office after Baricevic appointed Bob Haida as state's attorney to succeed him.

Mansfield, 46, also is a former member of the St. Clair County Board of Assessors.

He was on vacation last week and could not be reached for comment on whether he is interested in the public defender post.

The recent judge switches began when Patrick Fleming and William Starnes, both circuit judges, decided to retire and not seek re-election in November. Fiss and Belleville attorney Lloyd Cueto are running unopposed for those seats.

Two weeks ago, Circuit Judge James K. Donovan announced his plan to leave the bench and return to private practice Oct. 1. The Illinois Supreme Court appointed Kuehn Sept. 12 to fill that vacancy.

Adding to the confusion, the 12 associate judges in the circuit usually are re-assigned each January to various duties. This gives them experience in a variety of settings in family, juvenile, felony, misdemeanor and traffic court.

dren.

"He knew nothing about what would happen," Jensen said of Mosby. "He was a working mechanic. He was out barbecuing for his kids. (The defendants) went to his house and shot him in front of his 3-year-old son."

Thompson lived in the mobile home next to Mosby and was a known drug dealer, Jensen said. Bars on the mobile's windows and door were used for security.

"The only way to get in the trailer was to know Thompson," he said. "Michael Coleman knew Thompson and that's how they got inside."

Mosby's body was discovered by his girlfriend, Kimberly Fulton, when she returned home from shopping. She testified Thursday that she ran next door to Thompson's trailer but noticed the door was open and went back to her trailer.

Her 9-year-old son testified that he saw two men shoot Mosby. He identified Coleman in the courtroom as one of the attackers.

"I seen three people jump in a green van when I got home," Kimberly Fulton said. "They jumped in and took off. They left in a hurry."

Several witnesses also testified to seeing a green minivan parked outside the mobile home. Police traced a green minivan to Towns and found his fingerprints on the duct tape used on the victims.

•Cleanup

Street and Grand and Madison avenues where the owners have given the EPA permission to scrape soil will be used in the pilot soil cleanup. While the city has refused EPA access to easements — the four-feet-wide grassy strips between the street and the sidewalk — throughout the city, it agreed to let EPA scrape soil in easements in the pilot area only.

The EPA will make public its plans for the massive lead pile in mid- to late-October. The agency will accept public comment on the entire proposed remedy at that time.

The existing plan calls for the contaminated residential soil to be added to the pile.

Groundwater contamination has been discovered under the pile. City leaders are also concerned that dust from the pile, if left alone, will blow around and recontaminate areas that have been remediated. Similarly, if the EPA decides to remove the pile, residences that have already been cleaned are likely to become recontaminated.

Tarpoff said that recontamination occurred "alarmingly quick" after a similar EPA Superfund cleanup in Baltimore.

A technical review committee of scientific experts will review the proposed cleanup plan and make recommendations to Foreman.

Foreman told the parties last week that, due to the technical nature of the issues involved, he will probably exercise his privilege, under federal law, to appoint his own expert to interpret technical information and advise him.

The city, the EPA and the PRPs are to submit names of potential advisers to Foreman this week.

•Allegations

that $7,000 was seized during a raid at the Compton apartment on Robin Street March 3. But police only brought about $5,000 to the courtroom.

"I wonder what happened to that other $2,000. Probably the same thing that happened to the powder," Kavanaugh said.

But Assistant U.S. Attorney Suzanne Wissmann, the prosecutor handling the case, said it would make no sense for police to set up the chief's nephew.

"There is no evidence that police planted that cocaine. The loss of evidence was in fact the best thing that could have happened for the defense — inviting the theory that police planted it," Wissmann said.

"This business about a set up is offensive," she said.

Earlier in the trial, Sgt. Theo Adams of the Venice Police Department testified that the bag of powder must have been inadvertently destroyed with other evidence from resolved cases.

Bennett said he is satisfied with Adams' explanation and there will be no further investigation into the lost substance.

Compton was serving five years of intensive probation, the terms of which included constantly wearing an electronic monitoring device, when police say a confidential informant purchased two "rocks" of crack cocaine from Compton Feb. 1 and when police and probation officers searched the apartment March 3.

During the search, police confiscated the bag of powder, cash, a .45-caliber pistol, a cellular telephone, a pager and a police scanner.

On Thursday, Compton's mother, Shelia Rivers, testified that the money was hers. Compton's sister, Salina, testified that the gun was hers.

Black adoption program expanding

Sponsors of the "One Church, One Child" adoption program are planning an expansion of the program.

The Department of Children and Family Services and the Greater New Hope Missionary Baptist Church of East St. Louis hosted an adoption meeting at the Greater New Hope M.B. Church to review the expansion plans for the Metro East area and 34 counties in DCFS' Southern Region.

One Church, One Child is a unique church state partnership which challenges primarily African-American churches to recruit at least one family from their congregation to adopt a child. The program began with one church in 1980 and has grown to more than 850 congregations. The Illinois recruitment program has served as a model for similar church state programs in 27 states and the District of Columbia.

"When the program began in 1980, over 1,200 African-American children were waiting to be adopted," said the Rev. William Rucker, pastor of Soul Reviving MB Church in Chicago and president of the board of directors of One Church, One Child in Illinois. "Due to the efforts of the board of directors, DCFS and participating congregations, over 4,940 children have been adopted. Today there are over 200 African-American children in Illinois waiting for families."

One Church, One Child has not only focused on infants, but on older children as well.

"The number of children waiting for adoption statewide is between 20 and 75 infants at any given time," said DCFS Chief of Adoption Services Gary Morgan. "However, a special emphasis is placed on older children who are frequently difficult to place because of their age and special needs. We also try to stress the importance of placing sibling groups together."

Eighty-seven African-American children were placed in adoptive homes and 64 adoptions finalized in the 34-county DCFS Southern Region in fiscal year 1994.

Eighty-five children were placed in adoptive homes and another 59 adoptions finalized in the seven-county DCFS East St. Louis area. Forty-two youngsters are currently waiting for adoptive homes in the entire DCFS Southern Region.

The meeting, hosted by the Rev. David Crockett, pastor of Greater New Hope M.B. Church in East St. Louis, featured the presentation of the One Church, One Child Adoptive Parent Award to Rita Parks of East St. Louis.

As a single parent, Parks had adopted four African-American children: Floyd, 19; Montey, 18; Antwajuan, 15 and Taylor, 10. Floyd and Montey are siblings.

Parks has two natural sons. They are grown. Over the years, she has been a foster parent to 42 children.

Currently, Parks, a retired self-employed seamstress, is foster mother to three children.

The Rev. Rucker and Morgan also introduced other children who are waiting to be adopted.

agreement, Pearce has paid a total of $2,735 in restitution to a dozen victims who complained to the attorney general's office and another three victims who complained to the State's Attorney's office.

An additional $2,500 is being held in escrow. Those funds will be used to pay other victims who were bilked by Pearce who come forward before Oct. 21. Pearce has also paid $273 for advertisements in the Suburban Journals and the Alton Telegraph to advise the public that the settlement money is available.

Any unclaimed portion of the escrow account will be returned to Pearce.

In lieu of a civil penalty, Pearce also paid $5,000 into a state fund earmarked for consumer education and enforcement activities.

Class plans MetroLink trip; couple celebrates 60th anniversary

Maxine Green

Maxine Green covers the Granite City and Nameoki Township area for the Press-Record Journal. She can be contacted at 931-6256.

The Ruth Sunday school class of Calvary Baptist Church met Sept. 6 in the fellowship hall. Prayer requests were given for Diane Goodrich, Jean Glass, the Stafford family, Ruth Moser, George Bass, Charles Sutton and Brooks Weir. Bernice Boyer led the prayer.

Virginia Bueschel gave a devotional on "Ain't God Good!", written by Jerry Clower. Ruth Dagon gave the secretary's report, and Pat Wallis gave the treasurer's report. Cheer chairman Dorothy Watkins reported sending three cards and making nine telephone calls.

Reservations were made for the class to eat at Josepine's Restaurant in Godfrey on Sept. 19, following a meeting at the church.

The group discussed taking a trip on MetroLink and plans were made to go Oct. 11, leaving the church at 10 a.m.

Eileen Badgett gave a report nominating Wallis for treasurer, Dagon for secretary, Watkins for cheer chairman and Norma Ross, Boyer and Gladys Hutson for care leaders. Maxine Hoover, Wallis and Ross were also nominated for fellowship leaders. All were voted on and accepted.

Plans were made for the secretary to write to the Carmi Children's Home and get a young girl's name to send a Christmas gift to. Games were led by Ross. Lois Bevins presented gifts to Dagon, Hoover, Pauline Weir and Watkins.

The next monthly chiropractic class will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 27, in the office of Dr. Larry Shipley, 2502 Pontoon Road. Chronic pain will be discussed along with how chiropractic care has been so successful.

If you have severe headaches, stiffness of neck, pain between shoulders, backaches, arm or leg pains, numbness in hands or feet or nervousness, these are danger signals that something serious is present and care is needed.

The public is invited to attend and participate in the question-and-answer session.

The weekly meeting of the Women of the Salvation Army consisted of a visit to the East St. Louis Salvation Army Corps, where they enjoyed an early breakfast, prayer and fellowship with the East St. Louis women.

Later, they returned to the Granite City chapel and Barbara Miller entertained by presenting the history of the Salvation Army, which was organized in 1865 by William Booth, a Methodist who saw the need to help the poor of England. His wife, Catherine, was portrayed by Mona McAmish, who sat on the stage dressed in an early style Salvation Army uniform and bonnet.

Elisha Shirley, who was portrayed by Dawn Wilkerson, was the first woman officer in the United States. One renowned officer and saintly person, Esther Peterson, who chose to live in Jana among the lepers, was portrayed by Gertha Bradley.

A Japanese doctor, Rin Iawatha, was the first Salvation Army doctor among the poor people of Japan. She was portrayed by Jean McDaniel.

In the next meeting, a planning session will be on things to do and places to go.

New rule to affect investors

A new Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) ruling scheduled to take effect June 1, 1995, could dramatically impact the way individual investors conduct their securities transactions.

Specifically, investors will have three business days, rather than the current five, to pay for securities purchases or to deliver certificates after a transaction. The rule is commonly referred to as "T+3", which stands for "trade date plus three days".

Jeffrey M. Prosser, the Granite City representative for the financial-services firm Edward D. Jones & Co., said, "T+3 is designed to help curb the risk in the securities market. Over the past 20 years, we've seen an incredible increase in the use of computerized trading as well as growth in the sheer volume on the New York Stock Exchange; yet, the business of paying for all those securities has remained basically the same.

"In addition, most other nations have already reduced their settlement periods to three days or less. This new initiative will enable us to keep pace with technology, with the volume of trading and with other world markets."

According to Prosser, the new ruling also means that investors will receive the proceeds from selling securities two days earlier. "Reinvestment dollars will be put to work more quickly than in the past," Prosser said.

A shorter settlement may also affect the way many investors transact their securities business. In most cases, using the postal service to remit payment or send in certificates for a trade will no longer be fast enough. Rather, payment for securities may need to be on deposit in the investor's account at the time a transaction is executed.

"To avoid trading delays when the June 1, 1995, ruling takes effect, investors should begin preparing today," Prosser said. "A portfolio review is a good first step, and many investors will want to consider establishing accounts that offer a money-market option to provide easy access to the cash they need to pay for purchases and that also offer safekeeping of securities so that certificates are readily available for sale."

Hospital names customer services coordinator

In its continuing efforts to become more customer-focused, St. Elizabeth Medical Center has named Susan Bautsch as Quality Customer Services coordinator, Paul Raczkiewicz, executive vice president at SEMC, has announced.

"I first became interested in improving customer service when we were reviewing a book titled 'Service Within' in nursing council," Bautsch said. "In graduate school, I had done an independent study project about customer service in health care, which requires substantial research in that area. Then, when I heard about the QCS initiative at SEMC through my supervisor, I asked if I could help."

Bautsch became a member of the QCS steering committee.

"When this initiative began, I saw it as a way to reinvest the information I had gained through my education and repay the organization for what it had given me," said Bautsch, who has participated in SEMC's Tuition Reimbursement Program. "It was also an area that I was very interested in."

Susan Bautsch

She received her bachelor of science degree in business administration with a marketing major from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

She has also earned a master's degree in speech communication with a focus in organizational communication from SIUE.

Bautsch has been an associate at SEMC since 1975. She was a unit secretary for three years before becoming a unit manager. She has worked on 3-Doctors, OB, 5-Doctors and in the emergency room. She will continue to function as unit manager for Women and Newborn Services and 5-Doctors in addition to her duties as QCS coordinator.

"I will shift some of my duties to my unit secretaries," Bautsch said.

Bautsch first plans to help each department manager get started in the QCS process.

"I want to make sure they have the information they need and understand fully what we want to achieve," she said. "I am also interested in starting some long-range planning. We need to establish a starting point by doing a house-wide associate satisfaction survey.

"There may be things we can do right away which will make associates' jobs easier, helping them better serve our patient customer. I think we need to identify these issues and make improvements, then survey again in a year or so to see if our quality customer service process is making a difference."

SEMC receives external reports, for example, the Parkside Report, which measures patient satisfaction.

"We also need to survey our internal customers to see what is happening," Bautsch said. "What we are looking for is an overall culture shift.

"Regardless of health care reform or other external changes, we need to realize our organization provides a service and we need customers for that service. The longtime attitude that we are here and they will come is no longer valid. We need to set our organization apart and ahead by being recognized as a provider of quality human care as well as health care."

Two attend conference

Paul Hollis and Bill Weathers of Granite City recently attended Prudential's regional business conference in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Hollis and Weathers are representatives in the company's Alton detached office at 235 E. Center in Alton.

Sales representatives attending the conference were from Prudential agencies in an 11-state territory.

The three-day conference provided sales representatives with information on marketing strategies for an increasingly competitive market place.

Guest speakers at the conference included Rick Barrera, author and motivational speaker; Dr. Chuck Ward, a nationally known educator, writer, radio talk show host and public speaker; and Ward Lucas, author and broadcast journalist.

Conference sessions were conducted by Prudential executives from South Plainfield, N.J., and Oak Brook, Ill.

Protection from catastrophe necessary

Brian Mulhall

This is the ninth article in a series entitled "Making Sense of Your Money".

An important segment to a financial plan is managing the risk of a catastrophic loss. Unless an individual's program is designed to protect against such a loss, an entire life's work can be lost in a single uninsured or underinsured loss.

There are no state-of-the-art guidelines to specific amounts of insurance for your car and home. Your best resource is your property and casualty agent with many years of experience in the profession. Automobile insurance policies should contain all or most of the following provisions:

Bodily injury and property liability insurance. This insurance covers injury to pedestrians and occupants of other cars and damage done by you to the property of others. It is routinely categorized with a numerical code.

For example, in a policy coded 20 30 10 (or $20,000 $30,000 $10,000), the first number is the highest amount the insurer will pay for bodily injuries suffered by one person, the second is for all persons injured in one accident and the third for damage to property.

The amount of bodily injury and property liability insurance you need depends in part upon how much you have accumulated in the way of assets and in part on your earning power. The more liability coverage you have, the more you are protected in the event of a lawsuit due to negligence.

Medical payments insurance. This insurance covers medical payments for the policy holder and his/her family members. Also included are other passengers in the insured car, no matter who caused the accident.

Uninsured motorist coverage. This protects you from the hazards of becoming involved in an accident with an uninsured or underinsured driver. This insurance covers the policy holder and any passengers riding in your car at the time of the accident.

Collision insurance. This covers damage to your vehicle, no matter what or who caused the accident. Generally speaking, the older the car, the less sense it makes to have collision coverage.

Comprehensive coverage. This protects your vehicle against theft, damage from falling objects, vandalism, earthquakes, floods and collisions. Check on discounts that may be available for safe drivers, nonsmokers, honor roll students, air bags and security systems.

Homeowners and renters insurance. This is designed to insure your property and possessions against loss due to fire, theft or other risks. There are three levels of home insurance: HO-1, HO-2 and HO-3. The higher the number, the broader the coverage.

Renters coverage is HO-4 and condominium coverage is under HO-6. The HO-3 policies are the most popular choice for homeowners because of their broad-based coverage and because the cost is usually slightly more expensive than HO-2.

Optional coverage includes the following:

Replacement cost coverage. At least 80 percent of the replacement value of your home should be covered. Replacement cost is more expensive than the basic coverage, but is worth it. It offers much more protection in the event you suffer a major or total loss. This is also available for the contents of your home.

Floater policy. This provides extra coverage for specified valuable possessions such as jewelry. Be sure the floater policy provides all-risk coverage, which means that you will be reimbursed no matter what the cause of the loss.

Business related property inside the house. Personal computers and other equipment used to operate a home-based business must be insured separately.

Earthquake. Although this area of the country is low risk, why chance it? The premium for this extra is very inexpensive.

Flood. Just living through 1993 in this area should be enough of an incentive to talk with your agent and find out how much risk you face.

You may be able to obtain discounts on your homeowners premium for smoke alarms, dead bolt locks, fire extinguishers and burglar alarms.

A personal liability umbrella policy will protect you and your family from claims arising out of nonprofessional activities. It is usually coordinated with your automobile/home/renters policies and is designed to take over when your policy liability limits have been exceeded.

No policy should go beyond three years without updating. Ask your insurance agent to periodically review your policy, especially after a change in your personal situation. In determining whether or not to purchase insurance, the important question is not "Can I afford it?" but rather "Can I afford to be without it?".

The Youth Group of the Pontoon Baptist Church is collecting aluminum cans to help support future activities. Some upcoming events are go cart racing, a three-day retreat for Christ and a travel weekend to Rodgers, Ark., to visit the youth they hosted for the Crusade for Christ.

The annual picnic was held Sept. 18 at the Baptist Center. All kinds of outside games were played and more than 100 members and friends enjoyed the picnic meal and fellowship.

A round-up Sunday will be held Sept. 25 in the Pontoon Baptist Church. Everyone has been scattered here and yon during the summer, so this is an attempt to round up everyone to begin the fall season.

Round-up Sunday is planned to be a fun day. Everyone is invited to break out the jeans, cowboy shirts, cowgirl outfits, boots, etc.

Bible study will begin at 9:30 a.m. The morning worship begins at 10:45 a.m. The public and nonmembers are also invited to attend and join in the fun and worship.

Volunteers act as beacons for abused, neglected youngsters

By Ellen Ellick
Staff writer

These are some of the saddest stories of our time.

A mother ruined by drug and alcohol abuse drops off her six children at the nearest police station and walks out of their lives.

In a vacant apartment, another mother huddles with her young children, surrounded by trash and piles of dirty clothing.

A 10-year-old girl tells a neighbor about sexual abuse from a relative. The girl already has told her mother, only to be ignored.

A teenager runs away from the father who abuses her sexually and physically. She is alone, afraid, angry.

Those who dig into such stories usually find the parents were abused when they were children. Those who consider the future can easily predict that these children someday will continue the cycle.

Except it doesn't always happen that way. Sometimes these stories have happy endings ... or at least hopeful ones.

Mary Impellizzeri of Oakville deals in hope and in breaking the cycle that passes poverty and despair from one generation to the next. She knows she made a difference in the lives of several children she met as a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA).

Similar stories of hope and change come from Anita Schultz of Affton, Mary Ann Capellupo of Sunset Hills and Nicki LaFerla of south St. Louis.

None is a professional social worker. None pretends to know all the answers. But as volunteers, they work with individual cases that come under the supervision of the courts. They are among about 150 CASA volunteers in the St. Louis area appointed to speak up for children determined by the court to be abused, neglected or abandoned.

CASA is a national network with more than 550 chapters across the country. All CASAs receive training before being assigned to a case.

Locally, each CASA volunteer takes on one or two cases. The point is to give an individual case a lot of individual attention — something a professional case worker with 50 cases to supervise cannot do. Each volunteer stays with his or her case until it is closed — something that can take several years.

Capellupo said her role is as simple — and as complicated — as "making sure they (the children) are in a good home and getting the care they need."

Sometimes that means working with parents as well as the children. CASA volunteers frequently help get parents into counseling programs or into adequate housing. They sometimes make sure the parents keep court appointments.

But mainly the volunteers keep an eye on the children, watching out for problems, visiting schools, cutting some red tape, making the system work just a little better.

Impellizzeri says she knows she made a difference when she acted to remove some children from one foster care home and into another one more suitable.

"Since we're close to the case, we can sometimes see a problem before anyone else can," she said.

Impellizzeri, who helps her husband run a dry cleaning business, became a CASA volunteer because, "I'd always wanted to do something with children," she said.

Nicki LaFerla, a paralegal, volunteered because she once had helped a runaway teenager and saw the girl turn her life around. "She said it (her turnaround) was because of me," LaFerla said.

So when LaFerla heard about CASA, she wanted to try to make the same kind of difference again. LaFerla said since becoming a CASA volunteer, she has learned that "a lot of these parents aren't monsters. They just don't know any better."

She said that sometimes what makes a difference in some lives — the parents' and the children's lives — "is to just have someone believe in them and think they can do it. That's something that CASA can do."

Schultz, who works for Southwestern Bell, is typical of the other CASA volunteers in that the more she talks about her experiences, the more excited she gets and the more she wants to talk.

"Sometimes CASAs can accomplish things because they aren't professionals," Schultz said. In other words, they are not part of the system. She said she can tell people that she cannot do them any harm; she can only do them good.

Schultz's face lights up when she describes one little girl who now seems to be doing well. Schultz crosses her fingers when she talks about a mother who is really working to find a better life.

All the CASA volunteers agree on one thing: They need more volunteers. There are only enough volunteers for 10 percent of the cases that need them.

Persons interested in becoming CASAs can call (314)889-2908 to register for an informational meeting.

As for the cases mentioned above, all of them had CASA volunteers.

Of the six children abandoned at the police station, five found stable homes. Two were adopted. Three were placed in the same foster home, where they appear to be thriving. The future of the eldest daughter appears less positive. She dropped out of school and is now again living with her mother.

The children in the vacant apartment are now living with an aunt and her husband. They seem happy; they sing in a church choir and are succeeding in school.

The mother of the sexually abused 10-year-old moved away from the abusive relative who also had abused her as a child. The mother went through therapy for alcohol abuse, found work and a place to live. Mother and daughter are now living together again.

The teen-aged runaway is now in college and optimistic about her own future.

Warriors give Flyers all they can handle

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

East St. Louis 34, GCHS 14

EAST ST. LOUIS	7	7	0	20 —	34
GRANITE CITY	0	6	0	8 —	14

First Quarter
ESL — Beard 42 run (Ferguson kick), 7:58.
Second Quarter
ESL — Beard 1 run (Ferguson kick), 5:45.
GC — Curry 1 run (kick failed), 2:33.
Third Quarter
No scoring.
Fourth Quarter
GC — Kalips 37 run (Niepert run), 8:33.
ESL — Beard 72 pass from Powell (Ferguson kick), 7:09.
ESL — Beard 7 pass from Powell (Ferguson kick), 2:27.
ESL — Buford 99 interception return, 0:00.

As Mike Kalips ripped his way into the end zone in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, pulling the Warriors into a 14-14 tie with East St. Louis, thoughts of an upset raced through Memorial Stadium.

But they quickly disappeared as the explosive Flyers scored two plays later and added two more scores in the final 7:09 to fight off the Warriors with a 34-14 Southwestern Conference victory.

THE WARRIORS, still smarting from last week's loss to Collinsville, turned a sure mismatch into a hard-nosed battle by containing the Flyers' offense through the first three quarters. Granite City entered the final quarter trailing 14-6 and recovered a fumble on the first play of the quarter to set up the tying drive.

On 4th and 7 from the Granite City 31-yard line, the Flyers elected to go for a first down. But Granite City's Chris Janek hit quarterback Lawaun Powell in the backfield and forced a fumble. Pat Curry recovered, giving the Warriors the ball at their own 35.

Six plays later, Kalips scored on a 37-yard run to make it 14-12. Billy Niepert's 2-point conversion run tied the game with 8:33 to play.

The Flyers, however, rebounded quickly. It took East Side just two plays to reach the end zone as Kevin Beard turned a screen pass from Powell into a 72-yard touchdown. Beard broke two tackles and glided down the right sideline and into the end zone.

THE WARRIORS, still in the game, turned the ball over on the ensuing kickoff when Brian Sylvester fumbled. Brian Randle scooped up the ball at the Granite City 28, and the Flyers eventually scored the clinching touchdown on a 7-yard pass from Powell to Beard.

Despite the loss, Warrior coach Don Harris had few complaints. Granite City played East St. Louis to a near standstill until Beard's decisive touchdown — his fourth of the contest.

"They gave it everything they had," Harris said. "It was just a super effort by our players. We've got to build on this.

"I think it showed a lot of character. They put themselves in a position to win. They realized they could win the game and they felt it."

The loss kept GCHS (0-5) winless on the season, while East St. Louis improved to 4-1. The Flyers, however, found themselves in a tight game in the fourth quarter and had reason for concern.

"WE'RE ALWAYS concerned," East St. Louis coach Bob Shannon said. "But I thought we came back in good fashion and made some big plays. I thought the kids showed some character.

"They made the gutsy call and tied the game, and two plays later Beard made a great run."

Beard, the Flyers' leading rusher, had 108 yards on 21 carries and added two catches for 70 yards. Powell completed 9 of 11 passes for 179 yards.

After Beard's fourth touchdown, the Warriors put together one final drive. On the last play of the game, East Side's James Buford intercepted quarterback Jeremy Hoback at the goal line and returned the ball 99 yards for a touchdown with no time left.

But the Warriors went down fighting, something that came as a pleasant surprise to Harris.

"ONE THING WE worked on all week was we had to play football for 48 minutes," Harris said. "We've had signs of that this year, but we didn't play a whole game.

"Tonight was the first time the kids played all 48 minutes. I'm very proud of their effort.

Duchesne 2, Granite City 0

DUCHESNE	1	1 —	2

First Half
DUCHESNE — Jason Draut (Ted Kaminski), 32:42.
Second Half
DUCHESNE — Kaminski (unassisted), 75:27.

SHOTS — GC 13, Duchesne 11.
CORNERS — GC 4, Duchesne 4.

The Warrior soccer team would have settled for a tie in Wednesday's match against Duchesne in the final round of Pool B play in the Hazelwood Central Invitational.

But the Pioneers had other ideas and stunned the Warriors 2-0 at The Gauntlet to advance to Friday's tournament semifinals at Hazelwood Central.

DUCHESNE TOOK A 1-0 lead in the first half on a goal by Jason Draut and fought off an offensive barrage by Granite City in the second half to win its third straight game on the Warriors' home field.

Duchesne defeated Alton Marquette and Hazelwood East in two earlier pool games. The Warriors posted wins over the same two teams and needed just a tie to advance on goal differential.

The Pioneers spent most of the second half dodging bullets by the Warriors, who failed to finish on numerous chances, including a shot off the crossbar. Duchesne goalkeeper Tim Kelly earned the shutout.

"They're a good team," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "Not to take anything away from them, but we played well in the second half and had a lot of chances."

THE WARRIORS OUTSHOT the Pioneers 13-11 and controlled play throughout the final 40 minutes.

Justin McMillian had the two best chances to score. With 24:07 remaining, he hit the crossbar

Win at Alton finishes good week for spikers

Volleyball

Nearly halfway throught the 1994 volleyball season, there is still time to turn one's fortunes around.

The Granite City Lady Warriors may be taking the steps they need to compete come regional time, as they've put together three good matches in a row for the first time.

AFTER WINNING AT Wood River on Monday and challenging powerful Belleville West on Tuesday, the Lady Warriors won again Thursday, defeating Alton 15-5, 15-4 in a Southwestern Conference match in Alton.

The Redwings stayed close briefly in both games, but at the net they were no match for the Lady Warriors (4-9).

Granite City played the game without sophomore starter Amy Tapp, who twisted her ankle in pre-game warmups.

"We're hopeful she'll be back by Tuesday," said Lady Warrior coach Cindy Gagich. "But we had girls come in and pick up the slack. This was a good match, and that's three good matches in a row."

Willis

Brandt

The Lady Warriors enjoyed a distinct size advantage, but at times the Redwings were their own worst enemies. Alton made five errors in game one and 10 in game two, including the last four points.

FOR GRANITE CITY, it seemed everyone got into the act at the net. Jennifer Willis recovered from a slow start to register four kills, as did Stephanie Brandt. Erica Alsop, Julie Bohnenstiehl and Denise McMillan each added three kills from the front row.

Defensively, Alsop led Granite City with five digs, followed by Ann Rosenburg with four. Melanie Tapp and Willis each added three digs.

Meredith Snyders was the defensive star for Alton, registering eight digs in her back-row position. Snyders was one of four Redwings who registered kills.

Granite City started slowly in each game, then roared back to dominate the latter points. Down 0-4 in game one, the Lady Warriors scored 15 of the next 16 points, including seven in a row with Willis serving.

In the second game, both teams had trouble putting points on the board. But with Granite City ahead 8-4, Bohnenstiehl took the service. With the help of Alton errors, she racked up seven straight points to put the game away.

Old Rookies teaching the youngsters a thing or two

They may be the oldest softball team around, but the Old Rookies are just hitting their prime.

The Old Rookies, a 65-and-over softball team, is the only team of its kind in the Metro East area and quite possibly the entire state. The team has already competed in two national Senior Olympics tournaments and traveled to Springfield on Friday for this year's Illinois Senior Olympics state tournament.

THE TEAM, BASED in Granite City but made up of players throughout the Metro East, recently won the gold medal at the Senior Olympics regional at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

On Friday, the team was playing for the right to qualify for next year's national Senior Olympics, to be held in San Antonio.

The national competition is held every other year. Last year, the Old Rookies played in the national event in Baton Rouge, La. And in 1991, the team represented Illinois in Syracuse, N.Y.

Formed in 1989 by John Allen of Collinsville, the Old Rookies have been together for the past five years. The average age of the players is 70. The Old Rookies have a difficult time finding competition the same age, so they usually play younger teams.

They pride themselves on perseverance and setting a rare standard no other team in the area has matched thus far.

"WE'RE THE FIRST and only in this area," said Howard "Lefty" Harris, 69, who named the team and has served as manager. "Most of the time, we have to enter our team in a younger tournament because of the lack of 60-and-over teams.

"When you're 70-something years old and you tell somebody you're still playing, they think you're feeding them a line of bull. You don't hardly run into any guys playing at that age."

For the most part, the Old Rookies play for fun, but they enjoy the competition. Many of the players approach games with a sense of humor.

"We have about 19 pitchers and 35 right fielders," Harris said. "We gathered up the oldest guys we could find. A lot of them are good ballplayers, but a lot of them quit for a while. Most of them spent about two years suffering and getting back into shape."

SEVERAL MEMBERS of the team played professional baseball at one time, and most of them played baseball in the Inter-City League. One of the players, Chuck Weiss, played in the New York Yankees organization.

The team's Granite City residents include Weiss, Harris, Babe Amelung, Norman Burnett, T.A. Feeler, Gus Lignoul, Don Lloyd, Boyd McCommis, Art Menendez, John Palcheff, Ben Rose, Mike Tessaro and Les Thompson.

The Old Rookies planned to call themselves the Southwestern Illinois Seniors during their tournament in Springfield, and with good reason. The team has a handful of players living outside the immediate area, including Ed Baker of St. Louis, Ray McAteer of Swansea, Stan Serwatka of Fairmont City, Pete Petrovich of Mascoutah and Jack Scarborough of Plainview.

Allen, who put the team together, played for a St. Louis-based team that placed fifth during the 1989 National Senior Olympics in St. Louis. Soon after, he decided to create his own team.

ALLEN HAS ALSO competed in two track events, the shot put and discus, in the Senior Olympics and is one of the team's top hitters.

"He can really smash the ball," Harris said. "He's probably the longest-ball hitter on the team. He's played all his life."

"He's the one who got it started," said McCommis, 71, one of the team's organizers. "He's our superman."

"I'm just one of them," said Allen, 73. "It's something I enjoy, just the teamwork and getting together. I do what I can to promote it. I think it's good exercise for the older guys.

"You never lose your competitive spirit, I don't care how old you are. Every once in a while you see the old spark someone used to have."

This summer, the Old Rookies played in two leagues and continues to practice twice each week at Wilson Park. The team played in the Granite City Park District 60-and-over men's league and in another league in Bellefontaine Neighbors, Mo. During the offseason, the team plays indoors at the Ball Park Sports Center in O'Fallon.

HARRIS SAID THE team had to play against much younger competition at first but has since found other teams, primarily 55-and-over and 60-and-over

Warriors gain revenge on Mascoutah in Alton

Golf

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

Those up-and-down Granite City Warrior golfers are at it again.

The Warriors got fine efforts from everyone Thursday and gained a little revenge by beating Mascoutah and Civic Memorial at Cloverleaf Golf Course in Alton.

MASCOUTAH HAD beaten the Warriors twice previously — once at the Granite City Scramble and again on Sept. 13. This time, the Warriors would not be denied.

John Green and Tim Fulkerson led Granite City, each shooting a one-under 33 at the par-34 Cloverleaf, helping the Warriors set a team record on the Alton course.

Granite City's team total of 135 beat its previous record at Cloverleaf by four shots. The Warriors were three shots better than the Indians (138) and 20 better than Civic Memorial (155).

Played in an off-and-on rainstorm, Granite City coach Boone Chaney said his team provided the sunshine Thursday.

"Cloverleaf is not a big course, but we still shot some fine golf today," he said. "The rain didn't hurt us at all. In fact, it might have helped."

Ken Felty added a 34 and Ryan Duft shot a 35 to round out the scoring. Also for the Warriors, David Martin and Pat Schuman each fired a 36, Greg Bixler shot a 37 and Kim Harris added a 42.

"GREEN AND Fulkerson had exceptional days," Chaney said. "I'm thrilled with the way Fulkerson has come on the last couple weeks. He has scored in the last five matches. It's been a big lift for us."

Mascoutah was led by Toby Lindsay and Andy Kniffin, who each shot 33. Josh Phillips and Chris Smith added 36's for the Indians.

Civic Memorial got a 36 from Scott Tavernier, and Chris Henderson and Ben Martin added 39's.

The Warriors were to test their skills at Centralia on Saturday, weather permitting. The tournament will feature 12 teams from the area, including Belleville East and West, O'Fallon, Collinsville and Mascoutah.

"It should be a challenge," Chaney said. "It's a best-ball format, which is great for the kids. I think they really enjoy playing that type of game."

Granite City will field three two-man teams for the event.

Local duo in world competition

Bowling

Betty Townsend of Granite City and Alice Purdes of Madison will be among 23,000 participants when they compete in the 1994 World Masters Games in Brisbane, Australia.

The games will begin Monday and will continue through Oct. 8. Competition is offered in 30 sports. Townsend and Purdes will be competing in 10-pin bowling.

The bowling competition will draw 700 participants from throughout the world and 300 athletes from the United States.

The games are held every four years. Purdes qualified for this year's competition last October in St. George, Utah.

Townsend and Purdes plan to be in Brisbane for the opening ceremonies Oct. 1. They will bowl in the team competition along with triplets Bea, Bessie and Bernice McCartney of Pennsylvania.

teams.

"We played some 35-and-over teams, but that was like playing in the big leagues against those younger guys," Harris said. "But early in the season, we're ahead of them. We have more time to get in shape because the younger guys have to work. We can go any time."

Most of the team's players are retired but still active. Many of them are known by a nickname.

McCommis is "Whitey." Thompson, the chairman of the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame, goes by "Tombstone."

"He looks like a tombstone," Harris said. "He can play anyplace.

"A lot of our players are versatile. One of our senior ballplayers, Ed Baker, really loves the game. He says, 'I don't care where you play me, as long as I'm in there.' I call him our secret weapon."

THE OLD ROOKIES have won the Illinois Senior Olympics title in their age bracket the past four years. They were scheduled to play three games Friday at Four Seasons Sports Park in Springfield.

The Senior Olympics gives the players something to look forward to, especially the national competition.

When the Old Rookies traveled to Baton Rouge for last year's national tournament, they stayed for the better part of a week and split four games.

"It was a lot of fun," Harris said. "We played ball and went out to sightsee."

"The trip to the nationals is always great," McCommis said. "It's a great experience and you meet a lot of nice people.

"You run into people who are in excellent condition, and I think it really helps you. The urge to get out of practice and have some challenge is great. The Senior Olympics have really helped a lot of people."

with a shot in traffic and Duchesne's defense cleared away the ball.

Kelly made a save to rob McMillian at the right post with 6:57 left. McMillian was alone just outside the net and shot the ball into Kelly's hands.

"He caught a bullet," Duchesne coach Dave Thurmer said. "He was there before it happened. He's unbelievable."

Kelly's save proved to be the final chance for the Warriors. With 5:03 left, Ted Kaminski lined up a direct kick and beat goalkeeper Mike Bristol with a game-clinching goal from 20 yards out.

THE PIONEERS survived heavy pressure in the closing minutes to come away with the victory. After McMillian's shot rebounded off the crossbar, it appeared to be only a matter of time before the Warriors would break through.

"When they hit the crossbar, I thought they were going to score eventually," Thurmer said. "But we seemed to play better after that."

The victory sent Duchesne on to Friday's semifinal game against Rosary at Hazelwood Central. The tournament was scheduled to conclude Saturday in North County.

Wednesday's victory at Granite City was a huge step for the Pioneers, who will return to GCHS next week for their first appearance in the Tournament of Champions. Duchesne posted a 20-3-1 record last year and returned 14 seniors this season.

"It's good to be on this field three times before the big tournament," Thurmer said. "To win here is just a great feeling.

"The first thing I said before the game was, 'You're down already one (goal) when you get off the bus, fellas. The first one makes it even and the second one wins the game.' "

Draut gave Duchesne a 1-0 lead at 32:42 when he took a pass from Kaminski in the penalty box and sent a shot through traffic into the net.

The Warriors regrouped at halftime and played most of the second half with three attackers. With 15:36 to play, Matt Little had a breakaway opportunity thwarted when he took a long pass from Scott Nemeth and was taken off the ball just outside the penalty box. The Warriors received a free kick rather than a penalty shot, and Shawn Petroski shot wide.

to get an easy win for a change.

"We finally got our first first-game win," she said. "It was good for us mentally. We needed a little break.

"But this team is a scrappier bunch than they have been in the past. We got good serves tonight, and it gave us a chance to gain some confidence.

"We're still looking for the consistancy, and there are fundamentals which we still need to work on. But the kids have worked hard in practice this week, and it's paid off with three good efforts."

The Lady Warriors were off this weekend. They pick up their schedule Tuesday at home Collinsville.

'Fifth of July' to premiere at SIUE

"Fifth of July," the first play in Lanford Wilson's trilogy about the Talley family of Lebanon, Mo., will be the first production of the 1994-95 theater season at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the first performance for at least two students who are new to the SIUE department of theater and dance.

The play will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7 and 8, and Oct. 14 and 15, and at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, in the James F. Metcalf Theater on the SIUE campus. Continued renovation of the SIUE Communications Building theater has moved productions to the Metcalf Theater.

Veteran director David Quinn is enjoying his work with the new students who he said are part of a talented cast.

"We have a great, talented cast of actors, some of who are new to the department and new to our stage, and I'm excited about working with new people," said Quinn, who teaches theater classes for the department.

Quinn has directed several shows for SIUE University Theater including "Steel Magnolias," "Into the Woods," and "Barefoot in the Park."

Cast members Michael Szeles of North St. Louis County, a graduate of St. Louis Community College at Florissant Valley and now a student at SIUE, plays the part of Ken Talley's lover, Jed Jenkins. Alicia Skirball of Granite City, a freshman at SIUE, portrays June Talley, Ken's sister. This play marks the first opportunity to see these actors on the University Theater stage.

"Fifth of July" brings together four people who went to school at University of California at Berkeley in the 60s and who are trying to deal with the past. The four characters are at the Talley family gathering during the summer of 1977 in Lebanon, Mo., where three of the four friends grew up together.

The other plays in the trilogy are "Talley's Folly" and "Talley & Son." Wilson is currently working on a fourth play that will continue the series which chronicles life in a small, Midwest town during periods of crisis over a century and a decade.

The plot of "Fifth of July" revolves around Ken Talley, who is played by Matt Young of Decatur.

Young is no stranger to SIUE theater audiences. His most recent appearances included the lead role in "Tartuffe", Barnett in "Crimes of the Heart" and Delbert in "The Pride of Bushwhacker." Talley, Young's character in "Fifth of July," is a high school teacher who is homosexual and who lost his legs in Vietnam.

Amid this gathering of old friends and family, Talley must decide to take a job offered at the local high school. He is reluctant because of students reaction to his physical condition.

According to Quinn, "the part of Ken Talley has attracted several talented, professional actors who went on to become well-known in Hollywood — William Hurt, Christopher Reeve and Richard Thomas — who all played the part in off-Broadway productions of this play."

Quinn said "Fifth of July" is well-suited to the intimate surroundings of the Metcalf Theater.

"It will be as though the audience is eavesdropping at the Talley family gathering," he said. "The play is both witty and poignant at the same time, an engaging but challenging evening of theater. I was drawn to the relationships between the friends in the play and the honesty of these characters, a very straightforward group — characterizations which are a hallmark of Wilson's work.

"The play is similar to (Anton) Chekhov because of Wilson's use of language," Quinn said. "We learn so much about the characters through what they're saying. It's a very modern example of how Chekhov might write today. In fact I would say it's the play Chekhov would have written today if he were alive. However, Wilson's play is laced throughout with very funny moments — humor runs through nearly every scene of this work."

"Fifth of July" features adult themes and language, and is recommended for mature audiences.
